

Transition to Retirement Pensions

Anne Street Partners Financial Services Pty Ltd

ABN 25 107 671 563 AFSL 258853

ASP0443 V1 Date: February 2017

Transition to retirement pensions – back to their true purpose

The changes to superannuation announced in the 2016 Federal Budget have been passed by Parliament. Amongst the changes was legislation which will remove tax concessions for transition to retirement pensions (TTRs) with the aim of bringing them closer to their purpose of providing income to members as they transition to retirement.

The new rules will remove the tax exempt status that TTRs have long enjoyed on earnings on fund investments. Assets supporting a TTR will generally be taxed at 15% from 1 July 2017.

The main issues that you may need to consider as a result of the changes include:

- Having a clear objective of the purpose of maintaining a TTR or setting one up in your fund. Without the tax exempt status TTRs are no longer the quick fix in garnering tax concessions for your finances.
- TTRs may still help you:
  - Subsidise your income if you are wanting to reduce your working hours as you move towards retirement.
  - Reduce your taxable income and increase your superannuation balance without affecting your take home pay via a salary sacrifice arrangement.
- Review your situation to determine if you have met or soon will be eligible to start an account based pension (which has tax-free earnings) instead of a TTR.
- Ensure that a condition of release (an event that allows you to access your super) has been met which allows a TTR to be commenced.
- Determining your eligibility and capacity to make salary sacrifice or deductible contributions pre and post 1 July 2017 will assist in a decision to start or maintain a TTR.

Transition to retirement pensions must still meet the current pension minimum standards beyond 1 July 2017. This means a minimum pension withdrawal of 4% and a maximum pension withdrawal of 10% of your TTR balance if you are under the age of 65.

Transition to retirement pensions will also potentially have access to the transitional capital gains tax relief for superannuation assets affected by the new rules starting on 1 July 2017. This capital gains relief will ensure that any capital gain on affected superannuation assets will be disregarded or deferred to a later time when the asset is sold. This is a complex area of law that we encourage you to discuss with us with regards to your TTR in detail.

---

How can we help?

If you want more information about the Government's changes to transition to retirement pensions will affect you from 1 July 2017, please contact an Anne Street Partners Financial Adviser on 135 444. We'll be happy to help.

The information provided on this information sheet is general in nature only and does not constitute personal financial advice. The information has been prepared without taking into account your personal objectives, financial situation or needs. Before acting on any information contained in this information sheet, you should consider the appropriateness of the information having regard to your objectives, financial situation and needs.